A NOTE FROM THE MOST WORTHY PATRIARCH

Philadelphia, June 10th, 1945 Dear Members:

In our last issue of the Forward I was obliged with regret to advise you of the postponement of our National Division Session in 1945 for another

My hopes for a Session in 1946 become My hopes for a session in 1940 become somewhat brighter. With reverence and thanksgiving to our Creat God the European War has been declared over. But the battle is not entirely won; we still have the Pacific situation won, we still have the Facine students to finish, and there is no doubt in my mind it will be, and our Prayers are that it will be completed soon.

It has seemed like a long time since

It has seemed like a long time since we had the pleasure of meeting and fraternizing in 1941. When I was elected in 1940 in that lovely City of Providence little did I think I would still be in the M.W.P. office in 1945. The Deputies M.W.P's, and committee The Deputies M.W.P.s, and committee appointments made by me at that time have my sincere thanks and loyalty, and I hope their efforts will continue for the balance of my term. This National Division was to hold its annual session about the middle of May. We have had no report from it, but acknowledge with thanks the printed report of their Executive Form it we learn the sad news that their Most Worthy Patriarch Brother J. T. Pearson passed away on March 16th, after a short illness. Extracts from this report say of him "by his death the Order has not only lost its Chief Officer but a worker of rare ability" who had filled Natinal Division offices for 15 years. "Outside his home, Brother Pearson had many interests, but the Order of the Sons of Temperance claimed his first attention, and the principles of the Order were successfully advocated by him in the Church and Trade Union movement, with both of which he was actively associated."

of a beloved colleague and friend."

The National Division of North America extends to the N. D. of Great

In spite of the war distractions, they have made a net increase of 274 adults for the year, although having a decrease in the Cadets of 141.

TEMPERANCE

"The fundamental principles of the Order and kindred temperance so-cieties are being challenged today in a manner we have m't known in recent years. No one can look at life and not feel gravely disturbed at the trend of events. After more than five years of war, the Govt, has failed to take of war, the Govt. has faule to take effective steps to central the drink trade in any way. It will in days to come ever remain a charge against this Govt. that whilst it vigorously pro-secuted the war, it took no steps to save our young people from an in-evitable moral and physical disaster."

LIMITATIONS OF STATE CONTROL

Carlisle, whose public-houses are tate-controlled, stands seventeenth in he list of sober communities in England.

While this does not, of course, prove While this does not, of course, prove that the nationalisation of the drink trade is inferior to private ownership for purposes of control of consumption, it does, at least, suggest that nation-alisation is not the automatic, magic ansation is not the automatic, magic cure-all which so many of its advocates claim it to be. Carlisle, in spite of the control of its licensed premises by the State, consumes more strong drink than control of its licensed premises by the State, consumes more strong drink than Reading. We congratulate the citizens of Reading upon their sobriety. We trust that we shall not be accused of levity if we also congratulate the citizens of Carlisle for providing a challenge to the dogma that State control is a universal cure. The time has come to cultivate at least a little scepticism about the alleged virtues of State control and State control. We believe there is sound traditional argument against the assumption by the State of control of the drink trade and gambling.

In other respects, the question must be dealt with on the merits of each particular case. State control of monopoly production, for instance, may serve the ends of economic efficiency and convenience—or may not. But we must abundon the linesion character in the consensus of personal character, not upon any institutional device or mechanism whatsoever.

MODERATE DRINKING

It is admitted that there are, un-

It is admitted that there are, unfortunately, too many moderate drinkers in our churches. Many, undoubtedly very moderate, and indulge only on special occasions such as weddings, jubilee dinners, Christmas, etc.

I say emphatically, that in the light of modern knowledge about drink and the damage the traffic does to the whole community, any compromise with the drink habit, on the part of those who are professing Christians is quite indefensible.

The man who takes a glass of beer,

The man who takes a glass of beer only occasionally is nevertheless pro-viding the brewer with a mite towards financing his advertising campaign, which has the avowed object of making which has the avowed object of making our young people the mainstay of the tavern and beverage room. I maintain that the support of the liquor trade, however small it may be, cannot be reconciled with the duties of Christian citizenship. The ministers of our churches have a special responsibility in this matter. It is not sufficient that they be personal abstainers—and I really cannot understand how any minister can tamper with the drink habit—but total

Such enthusiasm will spread to the rank and file.

I heard of a Baptist Church in South Wales, with a membership of 350 that makes total abstinence a definite condition of Church membership. If there were more Churches of that type, there would be a real revival of the spiritual forces of cur country.

BEER PARLORS UP AGAIN

As we were about to sit down and write an Editorial, word comes over C.H.N.S. There has never been in the history of the liquor trade anyone who would argue for its use and sale, in any form, who has been able to control the evidences. We remember the very plausible arguments set forth for government control, (The system which is now condemned). They told us it would:

Eliminate boot-legging; promote true temperance; eliminate drunkenness; create respect for law and better social and moral conditions; and protect the create respect for law and better social and moral conditions; and protect the young.

And yet, year by vear, even in a period of world war, the liquor consultion and the resulting evils have been mounting as never in the history of our province or our Dominion. Every one of the promised good things from Government control were just a pack of lies as the past years have demonstrated. And any claimed improvements from beer parlors are either an illusion on the part of its advocates or a deliberate attempt to decieve the people. Let us be sure of one thing. Liquor is something that cannot be controlled. Its indulgence knocks everything and everybody else out of control. And "Believe it or Not." Beer is the very worst form of alcoholic use.

Not a very innoent thing these advocates of beer parlors are asking. In recent years the testimony of medical scientists has been that beer is more dangerous than when and spirits. Not that we would, for one moment, advocate the free sale of wine and spirits. It's the alcohol in these things which cause the trouble. "It's the Brain That Counts." and there is just as much alcohol in a bottle of beer as in a glass of whiskey.

No one can ever take a strong hold on God and have a large faith and at the same time grow weary in well-doing. Discouragement is the result of Infalthesenses. "I had fanted," wrote the paslmast, "unless I had believed to see the goodness of the Lord in the land of the living. Wait on the Lord and He shall strengthen thine heart." We must continue to lift our eyes unto the hills of God's righteousness from whence cometh our help. Do not let us concentrate on ourselves or on the power of evil but let us direct our attention to the grace of God which is sufficient for us.

If any disciple of Jessus had good reason for turning back and giving up the fight of faith it was St. Paul. Driven from his own people, looked upon with suspicion by Christian Judaizers, thrown out of Lystra and stoned, "in perils on land, in perils on the sea," cast into Roman prisons but always marching treat forward, travelling toward the sunrising because he believed God. "I can'do all things through Christ who strengtheneth me." Have we Temperance people an equal faith in our cause.

The story is told that one morning Martin Luther came down to breakfast in a very discouraged mood; the world was very dark for him that day. But his wife gave a new color to his sky when she said, "Martin, is God dead?" He realized that he had been acting as if God were dead or at least at the end of His resources but the searching question o' his wife made him see that God does never faint nor grow weary and that "He must reign until He hath put all enemies under His feet."

One of the most inspiring books of the Bible is the last, the Book of Revelation, especially when we consider the situation that is the background. Saint John the Divine was in a concentration camp of the first century, a prisoner for his faith on the lale of Patmos, which was a penal colony of the Roman Empire where traitors were sent to 'reak stone for the famous Roman roads. Certainly this was not a situation to 're would like to ask the question, "What are we doing as members, as a division as a whole, about learning the charges in our ritual?"

We have one of the most beautiful pieces of poetry in our ritual work that one is able to find anywhere yet I wonder how many of us take it too lightly; by that I mean we do not attempt nor even try to memorize the attempt nor even try to memorize the different charges. Perhaps I would not be wrong to say hat not more than half of the Past Worthy Patriarchs here tonight would be able to open and close Division without the Blue Book. The number would be less if we asked how many could carry out an initiation, by that I mean to take anypart in the initiation or to give any charge without the aid of the Blue Book. I am afraid that the of the Blue Book. I am afraid that the number would be still less if I should ask how many could carry out the in-stallation of the officers in the subor-dinate Division without the aid of the Blue Book

I do not think it would be too much Past Worthy Patriarch be able to perform the above mentioned ritualistic work without the aid of the Blue Book. A number of us may be able to open and close Division without the aid of the Blue Book, but I have seen some terrible blunders and mistakes made when due to circumstances beyvond ones control they were forced to carry on without the aid of the Blue Reasons why we be able to carry on without the aid of the Blue Book.

(1) It would add so much more stitution if people could stand u initiation if people could stand up and give the charges without having to and give the charges without having to read them. No one likes to go to Church and hear the Minister read his sermon. The listeners do not get any good out of it because they are wishing that he will soon finish. The same may be said of our initiation especially where we wish to make an impression on the new members. [29]. Whom one knows, his or her

(3) It adds to the prestige of the Division and the members as a whole to be able to do these things without the aid of the Blue Book.

So much for the longer charges that So much for the longer charges that as we might say are used on special occasions, but what about the charge that we use in the Division each week or every time we meet. They are just as important and beautiful as are the others. Therefore it should be the pride of each member of the Division to memorize his or her part as soon after installation into that office as possible. Further it should be the soul of every Further it should be the goal of ever member to memorize all the charge and thus we may say we could thro away the Blue Book.

Reason for memorizing.

(1) I think it would add a lot and create much interest in our Division work than we have at the present. The members would be able to see that they have accomplished omething.

(2) Members could be coached as were in learning their charges and hus be familiar with the words and the cording of the charges and thus there ould be no stammering or mispro-ounciation of words as is the case when members come night after night and they are asked to take different offi-ces they go and take the card and read

Therefore in view of what has been said shall not each one of us resolve to go back to our Division with a determination that we will take our ritualistic work more serious and also try and do our best to get our Divisions to a point where they will be able to carry on without the aid of the Blue

Beer, Mr. Dolence should be told, is not considered a labor-saving beverage by sound economists. Making beer destroys vast amounts of valuable foodstuffs (1); misuses much manpower which could and should be better employed, especially in the war emergency; wastes in transportation enormous quantities of gasoline and rubber; employs far fewer men per $1,000 invested capital than nearly any other manufacture; and gives the consumer absolutely nothing of real value for his money.

A man can indeed drink, as Mr. Dolence believes, "without becoming a drunkard." But no drunkard ever became such without drinking, and the great physician Mayo declared that, of every ten, "steady" drinkers, three will eventually drink to excess.

Mr. Dolence asks one sensible question: "Why are our superior officers approving this method (drinking beer)? Thy drunk it themselves, don't they?" That question merits an answer. Here it is:

Beer-Drinking Officers

Putting on a uniform does not change a man's character or his habits. Many officers were drinkers before entering service, and so still drink. The Govservice, and so still drink. The Government is more interested, also, in getting so-called revenue from beer taxes than in the welfare of the people "industry" is protected and permitted to waste manpower, materials, foodstuffs, and transportation facilities, while other, useful industry is cuttailed and hampered.

WHAT TO TEACH

Ignorance is the greatest cause of the first downfall in drinking. Thus our aim is that every child in the land should have some accurate teaching on alcohol and its effect on the human body; every child must know what alcohol is and what alcohol disc. It is said that man, in his ignorance, puts into his body (about which he knows little) alcohol (about which he knows even less). It is our business to dispel this ignorance. The effect (so far as is known) of alcohol on each part of the body must be taught. One point, however, must be remembered. We must not exaggerate or order our point. Young people are ordered our point. Young people are Ignorance is the greatest cause of the

... The New ... Extension Fund Campaign

Dear Brothers and Sisters:

I have read with keen interest the paper of Brother Geo. D. McVicar Grand Conductor, in the last issue of Forward. There is much food for thought contained therein which if applied in our divisions would I believe make for a healthrier atmosphere. A good housewife does not have hash three times a day week in and week out but endeavors to have varied tempting dishes for their several tasks. In most homes the Radio is entertainment for the mind. You can readily see that if we only rehash in discussions every evening there is a tendency to boredom. As pointed out by Brother McVicar we must, if we are to hold the youth, have a certain amount of entertainment so that their energy may have some vent. Then of course we can drive a point here and there along Temperance lines. may have some vent. Then or tourse ...

I hope our divisions will read Bro. McVicar's paper and make our Division halls ring with enthusiasm.

Yours in Love, Purity and Fidelity,

The speaker remarked that while it is a great thing to reclaim these men, "we should use all our energies to prevent people from becoming drunkards." He advocated temperance education for young people and absolute prohibition of liquor propaganda and advertisement. His financial statement showed that after all necessary expenses, there was a balance on hand of $306.65 and ofthis amount, the financial and audit committee recommended that $100, be invested in the Eighth Victory Loan.
